

15.01.2006 Nondini Hussain Editor, Satrong

I happened to read the article of Jenny Chowdhury on the "Dreadful Threats on Women" on your web page. I wonder how she could visualize such frightful atrocities and crime committed by men to the helpless women in Bangladesh. I wish if we, the entire nation, could think like Jenny Chowdhury and do something positive to remove these types of crime from the soil of Bangladesh and spare the helpless women from such atrocities. As a man, I feel ashamed at the role of some people of our sex, to commit such heinous criminal offence on Women kind. I just pray that the conscious of the nation awakes and we give the due respect and honour to the women and treat them as human being rather than looking down at them as some inferior creatures(not human being at all !!!). The culprits probably think that women are not to be given any consideration and they are supposed to be subject to any type of torture inflicted by the men. Just yesterday three incidence of Gang-rape were committed in the capital city. The culprits are at large as usual. This is a shame to all of us but we are rather helpless. Don't you think that this is the high time to do something about these and bring a stop to the crimes ? Everyday in the news paper a lot of stories come-up of Acid throwing. There seems to be no end of these. We look forward to coming of brave women to stand strong against the crimes and force the society and the nation to do the right things with a view to eliminate these crimes from Bangladesh and save the women. I appreciate your role of publishing such articles in your web page and make us aware of the heinous activities of the culprits in disguise of human being. Such articles inspire us to do something positive against the criminal activities. I would thank you and Jenny Chowdhury on behalf of the conscious people of Bangladesh.

Sincerely yours,

Md. Abdus Salam