For Love

Swapan Chakraborty

No, I don't want you to go,
No, no, and no, You don't go.

The night is too young,
The moon is just started shining
The trees both side of the streets are shivering with joy of winds.
And in this eternal moment you decided go leaving me alone!
In the dust of disgusts,
In the dark of distrusts,
In the myths of memories!!
Touch my hands; wrap me in your arms
Let the night go by, let the minds fill with eternal charms.

You're the light of my life, how could you go
Do your hear me? You never could do so!
You've been always good to me, you never said no
Whenever I asked you for anything, you've given so.

I had your heart and mind, your soft body and feels
I had your trusts and love, your agonies and glees.
I had your pains and comforts, your elegant touch and attentions
I had your pasts and presents, high moments of your pretensions.

You've never said no when I asked you to share anything you own
In return, you never asked anything from me, never hit my zone.
You're so selfless; I've been very selfish with you
You never bothered for it; you're the best of you.

I never felt I was in love with you
I never felt you've owned me too,
I never thought I would be ever without you
I never thought I would ever lose you.

With your love and presence, your touches and feels You've always kept me as your own reels.
And, now I know, I can't live without you as you've signaled suddenly to go.

I know I've been very selfish but that's what you've made out of me
Keeping me in yours always
I never saw any other than thee.

I never cried, I never moaned, I've always atoned.
I wouldn't live if you leave, leave me stoned.